Local Kids: Flower Children of the '80s

by Missy Cheaney

"I don't try to be different. I can put myself in a different view. I dye my hair to change the way I look." It's dyed black from brown to "psych myself up for winter."

Shannon (no last name — non-conformists aren't into last names) wears ivory face makeup with dramatic black eyeliner. Her mother says she looks like death.

Stephanie wears antique clothing from thrift stores because she likes the style and the price. Her hair is black, orange and brown. Her mother thinks the whole thing is cute. It reminds her of the hippie Woodstock days. Her father thinks non-conformists are only trying to draw attention to themselves.

These flower children of the 80's feel that their non-conformity is not only physical appearance, that it is also an attitude and a way of life.

"We don't care about materialistic things. We don't care what other people think or how they look." They feel they are individuals, with no certain look, while the shallow "preppies" or "trendies" grab any fad that comes along. They feel that Preppies rate one's outward appearance, but they (the non-conformists) look at the inner person.

Many of them hang out at "The Ramp" — the skateboard ramp. They listen to hardcore artists, like "Echo and the Bunnymen" and "The Smiths." Their music does not appear on the top 40 chart.

Shannon and Stephanie believe the entire non-conformist look is an art form. It's dramatic. Stephanie feels the look itself will probably die out, but "the attitude will stay the same."

Starship & Night Ranger A Concert to Remember

by T.L. Westgate

October 17 the Lee County Civic Center walls shook. Starship and Night Ranger gave an electrifying concert not to be forgotten.

Starship opened up with "We Built This City" and the audience took off. The group played quite a few old songs as well as recent cuts. Die-hard Starship fans loved it.

After a short break, Night Ranger made a grand entrance — through a lamp. A huge "Aladdin" type lamp was slowly raised on a platform in the rear of the stage. Smoke swirled around the gold fixture as the lid swung open. A hand crept out and felt around. The crowd went wild and Jack Blades popped out, then Brad Gillis and Jeff Watson. They grabbed their guitars and got the place jumping. Kelly Keagy and Alan "Fitz" Gerald were already in place on drums and keyboard, respectively.

Night Ranger danced and pranced around the stage, transferring their energy to the hundreds of people standing in front of the stage. They played songs from all three of their albums.

WRGL-G93 radio contest winners went backstage to meet the group and pose for pictures. A spectacular night.

— NEW COLUMN — The DUNGEON MASTER'S Corner

Let me introduce myself. I am the Dungeon Master. I am 15 years old, and I have been playing "Dungeons and Dragons" for about five years. I hope that this will be a monthly column.

One of the advertisers in this paper, The Magic Lantern, is starting a gaming club in the Naples area to teach the game correctly and has told me that he invites parents and other adults to come and observe the games. The club should be started in early November. The games will be adult supervised and will meet every Saturday. There will be advancement certificates, membership cards, prizes, etc.

If you have any questions regarding this game, characters' abilities, etc., please feel free to write me at the following address: The Dungeon Master, 368 5th Ave. So., Naples, FL 33940. I will attempt to answer your questions in the column if at all possible. For those of you who want a personal answer, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I will answer you as soon as I can. Be sure to sign up for the games.

My name is omitted from the column. Any idea as to who I am? From time to time, there will be clues as to my identity. If you have an idea, send me a letter at the listed address. If you figure out who I am, there is a PRIZE in it for you. First clue: I attend Naples High. That narrows it to only about 1200 of the young people here in Naples. I am 15 years old, tall and slender. That should keep you guessing for a while. See you next edition.

Orange Bowl Queen Contest

Friendly competition at the Orange Bowl Queen contest.

The Orange Bowl Queen contest was held at Cambier Park in October. Misty Marshall was named a Princess, along with Nicole Enders. Kristen Cassaniti was named Queen. All three girls will compete next in Miami on November 13.

Update: RENEE DEES

by Sonja Craparo

This summer Renee Dees went to Notre Dame University for the National & World Championships. She represented Florida for the pre-teen "Miss Majorette of America" contest.

Renee received 4 medals for placing in the top 10 in the world in the categories of: modeling solo, two baton, and trio divisions.

Next year Renee is going to London to compete for the world championships. Good luck, Renee.

Safety Tips From Domino's Pizza

Now that winter is here, our roads are becoming crowded with cars. This increase in traffic makes good safety habits more important now than ever. As simple as it seems, many people cannot remember the basic rules of safety. Here are a few to remind you:

- Never run between parked cars.
- Always look both ways before entering a road
- Avoid bicycle riding on busy streets.
- Don't chase runaway balls or frisbees near the road.
- Only use skateboards in areas away from traffic.
- Do not wear dark clothing at night.
- Obey all traffic signals, cross at crosswalks.
- Watch small children & pets very carefully near traffic.
- Use your common sense to prevent accidents.
- Do not talk to strangers.

Domino's Pizza drivers are trained professionals, but most drivers are not. That means that you have to watch out for them (not the other way around). Please follow our 10 safety tips, and help us keep Naples a safe place to live and play.

Discover Strange Creatures of the Sea at the Conservancy

Youths age 7-11 will have the opportunity to participate in an activity oriented class to be held November 29th, a school holiday, from 9:30 to 11:00 a.m.

You will encounter strange microscopic animals from the sea, and then design your own Strange Sea Creatures mobile.

Fee: $5 for members, $7 for non members. Registration is not accepted by phone. The Conservancy is located at 1450 Merrihue Dr., Naples, just north of the Post Office on Goodlette.

Manatee Exhibit

While you are at the Conservancy, see the first traveling exhibit of the new season: The Manatee in Peril, on display until November 16.

A manatee has a face even a mother has trouble loving. Its grey, wrinkled face is badly in need of a shave. It eats 100 pounds of food a day to maintain its two ton figure. It feeds for six to eight hours a day: seagrass, weeds, and invertebrates.

The mammal evolved from four footed land mammals over 60 million years ago, and can reach up to 12 feet long.

Their habit of grazing on seagrass in herd-like groups has earned them the common name "sea cow." They are on the verge of becoming extinct — only about 1,000 are alive today.

Don't miss this exhibit. Adults $1; kids $.50; under 2, no charge.

Homecoming Court

by Missy Cheaney

Naples High Homecoming Queen, Connie Levy, a 17 year old senior, was also voted friendliest by her class. She is vice president of the Keyette Club and Student Council representative. Drew Arnold was named Homecoming King.

At Lely High, the Queen was Dolly McMullen, and the King Rufo Hernandez.

Outstanding Youth Honored by Sunset Optimists

Youth Appreciation Week is November 11 through 17. The Sunset Optimist Club will recognize 44 outstanding middle school kids on Tuesday, November 12, 7:30 p.m. at the Golden Gate Community Center.

The youths are selected by their schools based on service to the community, service to their church, and service to their school. They will receive awards, certificates and items donated by local merchants.

Youth Appreciation Week helps demonstrate the positive contributions youth are making toward the betterment of mankind.

The Sunset Optimists will also honor youth-related organizations.

TL wins $10 Prize

For his excellent article on Weird Al Yankovic last month, TL Westgate was awarded $10.

He went to the interview fully prepared with unusual questions so as to not bore the star with the same questions he has been asked 100 times before. He researched Weird Al before preparing the questions, and was professional and efficient during the interview so he would not waste any of Al's time.

Good job, TL.

Beauty/Modeling Tips

Carol Rasberry from the Modeling Connection has these hints for blow drying your hair.

Blow dryers are a wonderful time saver, but there are some precautions you should take. First, begin with damp hair. Towel dry your hair, then separate with your fingers and use a wide tooth comb to remove tangles. Begin drying at a high setting, switching to a lower one when hair is still somewhat damp.

If your dryer has only one setting, begin six inches away from your hair and move to eight or nine inches as hair dries. Keep the dryer in motion so the concentrated heat can't damage hair.

When your hair is almost dry, begin styling it using a round brush with heat resistant nylon bristles.

For more volume in your hair, part into small sections and brush against your hair's natural growth pattern.

For smooth hair, direct the air current from the dryer down from above and brush the hair down with long smooth strokes.

Lely High for Humane Society

by Lori Love

You've heard of "USA for Africa," "We Are the World," "Live Aid," and "Farm Aid" which all helped raise money for various causes; but here's a new one: "Lely High for Humane Society."

Lely High Schools' Rap Club, sponsored by Lely English teacher, Garland Love, raised $325 for the Collier County Humane Society. The club has 75 members who all participated in helping the animal shelter.

Two of these members, Crystal Donaldson and Alice Simpson, deserve special recognition for raising $100 each.

"Rap Club allows young adults to express their social consciousness through becoming directly involved in community issues by raising funds for various causes," Mr. Love stated.

14 Year Old Model Goes to the Big Apple

When 14 year old Josie Campbell first attended modeling school, she had no idea she could ever become a top model.

Josie won Suzi's School of Modeling's "New York Model Search" and, along with 25 other models, went to New York.

Her first day she was spotted by 13 agencies and signed with the ELITE AGENCY, the world's second largest agency.

Now Josie travels between New York and Naples. She is enrolled at the New York Performing Arts School (the same one from the movie "Fame.")

Her agent Suzi Peters, from the local Suzi's School of Modeling, says she has such potential that it should be a short time before she appears on the cover of "Seventeen Magazine!"

Recipe:

Pumpkin Pie

by Jenny E. Prue

After Halloween, what do you do with your pumpkin? Here is a fun, easy, and delicious way to get rid of your pumpkin, plus get a great dessert at the same time.

Here is the stuff you will need:

1½ cups of peeled, mashed pumpkin without seeds or 1½ cups pumpkin in a can.

2/3 cup brown sugar

1 teaspoon cinnamon

1½ teaspoon ginger

1 teaspoon salt

2 eggs

2 cups milk

1 bowl

1 pie crust

1 pie pan

Here is how you make your pie. First mix all of the ingredients in a bowl. You may want to put the eggs and milk in after you have mixed everything else together. Then mix in the milk and eggs. Now put the pie crust in the oven at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. That was for cooking the crust. Now put the mixture from the bowl in the pie crust. Now put your pie in the oven for one hour at 300 degrees. Test to see if the pie is done once in a while by putting a table knife in the middle. If some of the mixture gets stuck to the knife, then cook the pie some more. If no mixture gets stuck to the knife, your pie is done.
